(not repeated)

Atul Grover

- Overview of the concept of the medical home
- Why this is important in the upcoming debate on health care reform
- As the concept grows in popularity, a discussion of the issues that AMCs will find particularly challenging

L. Vendor Relations: Challenges in Governance and Professionalism for Academic Medical Centers

David C. Blake

Douglas Brown

- The recent scrutiny being brought on AMCs and some perspectives on why it is happening
- The latest manifestation of this trend at AMCs – conflicts of interest and vendor relationships (the relationship between physicians and the pharmaceutical and device industry) and how this issue fits within the broader scrutiny on AMCs in general
- How proposed rules for vendor relations have been presented as matters of “medical professionalism,” the appeal to “professionalism” within the context of social and cultural developments that have taken place within medical education and, in particular, within AMCs, the relative challenges and advantages to reforming vendor relations on the basis of medical professionalism as opposed to regulatory compliance
- Practical responses organizations can take to address these issues, including: (1) a review of UMass Memorial’s new Vendor Relations policy, which prohibits all industry gifts and (2) the role that professionalism played in its adoption and implementation

M. Clinical Integration within the Academic Medical Center

Douglas A. Hastings

Margaret M. Peyton

- AMC and faculty practice plan structures and opportunities for clinical alignment

- Why clinical integration helps solve legal issues
- Increasing quality and decreasing costs — the new imperative

ADJOURNMENT

Go Green

AHLA is going green for the 2009 Academic Medical Centers Program! We are trying to reduce the amount of paper we use at our programs. This is both an effort at responsible environmental conservation, and an effort to increase the timeliness of the resources provided to our attendees. We will not automatically be printing binders for everyone. All materials will be available on a website prior to the program so attendees can print what they need for the sessions they plan to attend and handed out on CD at the program. For those who still do want the binder, they will be available for an additional fee; please order on the registration form on page 11.
